Leading firms from every major sector are based in the UK’s capital, alongside Europe’s largest start-up community. In a city with a mindset that embraces innovation, you will also have access to the skillsets of a huge network of passionate innovators and entrepreneurs.

London offers unparalleled access to real-world experience and Imperial’s proximity to the City, the capital’s financial and business hub, gives you a unique opportunity to visit and learn from top global organisations. Imperial’s partnerships and networks amongst London’s business world are extensive and our Employer Relations team brings this community to you in the Business School. Our industry connections also give you direct access to business experts as they join you on campus, sharing their wealth of experience as guest speakers and lecturers.

With over 300 languages spoken and 37% of inhabitants coming from outside the UK, London is a world in one city. Whether it’s people, food or entertainment, the diversity here is unrivalled. Imperial is situated in South Kensington, in the heart of cultural London, next to the Science Museum, Natural History Museum, and the Victoria & Albert Museum. In addition to having access to some of the world’s most famous museums, you’ll be close by to art galleries, parks and restaurants.

Just a short walk from the Business School is one of the world’s most famous venues, the Royal Albert Hall, where your time at Imperial will come to a spectacular close at your graduation ceremony.

London: a city of opportunity

Vibrant, diverse and well-connected, studying in London means studying in one of the world’s greatest cities. London’s reputation as a global centre for business and finance attracts the brightest business and creative minds, making it the perfect place to forge lifelong professional relationships and networks.
In 2016 more than 205,000 companies were born in London – that's more than one new business every three minutes.

With 99% of all business activity occurring in time zones that overlap with London's working day, London attracts more European headquarters than any other city.

Over 150 public parks contribute to London being 40% green space – that's about 173 square kilometres.

The capital welcomed over 19.8 million international visitors in 2016. It is home to four UNESCO world heritage sites, 173 museums, 857 art galleries and over 100 theatres.

Student Experience
- Sport Imperial: there are plenty of ways for everyone in the Imperial Community to get active including numerous club sports, our Ethos Sports Centre and Impetus, our recreational sports programme.
- Volunteering: alongside a wide range of volunteering opportunities, Imperial College Union’s volunteering scheme, Community Connections, links Imperial students with the local community. The Imperial Plus scheme means you can log your hours spent volunteering towards an accreditation.
- Leadership roles: a variety of student leader roles are open to all Business School students.
- The Enterprise Lab: located at the heart of the university’s world-class innovation and entrepreneurship ecosystem, the Enterprise Lab brings together students from across College and helps them in making their vision of the future a reality.
Programme content

On this one year programme you will study core modules to build your foundation in business, and then shape your own elective and project portfolio to suit your personal academic and career ambitions.

Online pre-study modules

Pre-study modules ensure that all students have the knowledge and skills required for the start of the programme. You will be expected to complete modules covering mathematics, accounting and career and professional development from three months before the start of the programme.

Leadership and team building day

To kickstart your journey we offer a leadership and team building day. A fun day away from campus, you will spend time building core relationships with your MBA family – the team you will be working with for the next year – and exploring how individual characteristics affect leadership styles.

Core modules

The core modules will build rapidly on your previous experience, while introducing new and challenging disciplines. You will cover the general functions of management, explore essential business topics and acquire the skills to be an effective and inspiring leader.

Practical highlights

These compulsory modules are designed to shape you into a well-rounded, responsible leader, ready to face the business challenges of the future.

Ethics and Values

The integrity of big businesses is often questioned, particularly since the 2008 financial crisis. This module explores the ethical dimensions of modern corporate life and how they relate to your aspirations in business.

Strategic Problem Solving

This module will provide you with the key techniques you need to complete your MBA successfully. It will equip you with a number of practical and analytical toolkits commonly used by top consultancy firms and sought-after by employers.

Electives

Whether you are looking to broaden your knowledge or specialise in areas of particular interest, our wide range of elective options let you customise your degree. You will choose six electives, developing your expertise with your future career objectives in mind.

You can choose from a range of on-campus or online electives. Approximately 20 different electives are run each year depending on student interest.

Supported by our experienced faculty, many of the electives include guest lecturers from industry and other academic institutions who impart their unique insights and real-world experience to the class.

The electives also offer you the chance to interact with new classmates that closely mirror the workforce. Shared across the MBA programme portfolio, you will have the opportunity to work together with the Executive MBA, Weekend MBA and Global Online MBA classes.

Students also have the opportunity to undertake study abroad programmes with the IB Glocal Electives. Further information on page 23.

Sustainability and Competitive Advantage: Rethinking Value Creation
An MBA helps you to develop the skills and qualities necessary to be a true business leader. Alongside your core modules and electives, the Imperial MBA includes a variety of activities designed to develop your communication and presentation skills, team work and awareness of the business world and the nature of leadership.

Practical learning

Imperial Innovation Challenge

This intensive, one-week learning laboratory links the Business School with the expertise of other Imperial faculties such as Natural Sciences, Engineering and Medicine. Your goal is to apply innovative thinking to complex international issues and generate new, exciting business solutions.

Group project

Teamwork will be a valuable asset whatever your intended career path, and the group projects within your MBA will naturally develop your skills. You will be able to choose between two three-month projects:

Consulting Project

This project will see you working with an external organisation on a real-world consulting project. Building on your innovative thinking and entrepreneurial abilities, you will work together to produce recommendations that will be presented directly to the client. Recent clients have included Cisco, Shell, GSK and Thomson Reuters.

Entrepreneurial Journey

This project allows you to build your own multi-disciplinary team to explore the key challenges of preparing a start-up and introducing products and services to market. Collaborating with key researchers and practitioners in the field, you will investigate the commercial potential for your own idea, or one being developed by one of our project partners, including Imperial Innovations and the Royal College of Art.

Imperial Business Pitch

Your Entrepreneurial Journey project may also be entered into Imperial Business Pitch, a competition that provides bespoke advanced coaching and mentoring and the chance to compete for seed capital of £10,000.

Perspectives on Practice

Perspectives on Practice is an individual, self-directed component of the programme that lets you make your own choice about the direction of your MBA. Reflecting on your MBA learning as you near the end of your studies, you will choose to undertake either an internship or an individual project.

Internship

You will be given the opportunity to organise an internship with a company that you are interested in. You’ll be able to continue developing your practical skills while forming useful industry relationships. At the end of your internship you will submit a project based on your work.

Individual Project

Alternatively, you may pick a client of your choice and conduct an independent project. This will allow you to develop your ideas on a topic of interest by considering the implications of current thinking within an applied context.

Capstone

Tailored to the interests and career aims of each class of MBA students, your capstone experience will round off your learning and reunite you with your classmates.
Global opportunities

Today’s markets are no longer localised. Competition is on a global scale and our teaching reflects this. Whilst studying on the MBA, you will explore global business by taking part in two international trips; one in Europe to expose you to European business and policy, and one to expose you to international markets. These are an integral part of the Full-Time MBA programme, with costs included in your tuition fees.

Business Insights in Europe
During your MBA journey you will visit a leading European city to learn about international business practices in Europe. You will have the opportunity to visit top companies and learn about the cultural and economic ecosystem of Europe outside of your London classroom. Our class of 2017 visited the German capital city Berlin, where they had a chance to gain insight into the start-up environment in Berlin and Europe.

Global Experience Week
The Global Experience Week allows you to immerse yourself in the business environment of another country. Together with the rest of your class, you will travel to explore business in an international context. Through a combination of visits to top local companies, as well as international companies based in the country, you will learn more about business from top executives.

For example, our 2015–16 class travelled to China and visited companies as diverse as Ford, advertising agency Wieden+Kennedy, as well as visiting a local migrant school. Our 2016–17 class travelled to Vietnam and heard from a range of companies including Saatchi & Saatchi, Piaggio and Viet Tiles, a handmade cement tile supplier.

Exchange opportunities
During the summer period, you can choose to take modules towards your MBA at one of our global partner institutions. These include:

- St Gallen
- HEC Paris
- Università Bocconi
- Chinese University of Hong Kong ESAN
- ESAN

Foreign language classes
With business taking place on an increasingly global scale, foreign language skills are highly sought after. You can complete one foreign language course, at no additional cost, alongside your MBA study. Classes available include: French, German, Italian, Spanish, Russian, Arabic, Japanese and Mandarin.

IB Glocal Electives
Students have the opportunity to enrich their academic experience with the IB Glocal Elective study abroad programmes to explore contemporary global business problems with a local perspective. You’ll gain a deeper insight into international issues in a particular geographic area. Please note this elective is not included in your fees and will incur an additional cost. Further information is available on our website.

Studying in a highly international class, you will be encouraged to adopt a global perspective.

“The Global Experience Week in Vietnam was amazing. We met so many representatives from diverse fields. This variety wouldn’t be possible without the reputation of Imperial College. The programme over the week also included a range of cultural experiences, allowing us to learn about Vietnam on a deeper level.”

Build your network

Your time at Imperial offers you an unrivalled opportunity to make long-lasting contacts that will prove vital in your future career. You can expect to mix with fellow students, alumni, world-leading faculty and senior business professionals – all with the potential to enrich you, both professionally and personally.

Speaker series
Our esteemed speaker series, attract senior business leaders to speak at the Business School. Speakers include key practitioners from the City of London and beyond.
Past speakers include:

Nick Strange
Oil & Gas Consultant
McKinsey & Company

Charles Rolls
Co-Founder
Fever-Tree

Samantha Rockey
Co-Founder, Director

Thomas Harrison

Next Practice series
Hosted by Imperial Enterprise Lab, Next Practice events look ahead at how cutting-edge technologies, burgeoning consumer trends and business model innovation is disrupting the status quo. Each event features a panel of industry and academic experts followed by an audience Q&A and networking.

Women in business
Becoming part of the Imperial College London community means gaining access to a network of inspiring females, and Imperial’s Women in Business Society connects you with students from across the College.

We are a proud sponsor of the Forté Foundation, a non-profit organisation that champions women’s progression within business through access to education. All MBA students receive full access to the Forté Foundation network, resources and services.

“\nThis year I participated in the Data Sparks scheme which operates as part of the Business School’s alliance with KPMG. Working with a team of students from MSc Business Analytics, this gave me a unique opportunity to lead a real-world Big Data consulting project for a global financial institution.”

Suzy McClintock
Full-Time MBA 2016–17

Student-led clubs
The Business School supports a number of student-led careers clubs which bring together like-minded MSc and MBA students with similar areas of professional interest. We have clubs aligned to core sectors: Finance; Consulting; Technology and Media; FMCG, Luxury and Retail; Energy; Healthcare; Sustainability and Social Impact. The School also supports an Enterprise Club for students interested in entrepreneurship or family business.
Each club runs a number of events throughout the year, giving you the opportunity to build relationships with companies, learn from alumni and professionals and network with other students. Companies that have presented at student-led events recently include BCG, EY, McKinsey, HSBC, Microsoft, Google, Mitsubishi, Shell, Moët Hennessy, NFL, Visa and NHS England.

Work, study, life balance
With a choice of over 340 student-led clubs, societies and projects, you’ll have the chance to take part in volunteering opportunities, clubs and projects with students from across Imperial College London.

Whether you’re simply looking to keep fit or you’re an experienced international athlete, there are also plenty of sporting opportunities, including student-led sports clubs, group classes and our state-of-the-art sports facilities right on campus.

Imperial events
Imperial has a wonderful diversity of events, including exhibits, plays and our annual festival. You will be able to attend lectures by world-leading faculty across a range of subjects, including science, technology, medicine and engineering.

Enterprise Lab
Supported and inspired by the Business School’s Innovation & Entrepreneurship Department, the Enterprise Lab connects students from all faculties across Imperial and maximises the impact of our dynamic enterprising culture.
Whether you’re interested in starting your own business or becoming a force for innovative change within existing companies, Enterprise Lab will help you develop an entrepreneurial mindset through real-world experience and access to the latest advice, cutting-edge research, events and activities, as well as student societies and competitions.
Faculty: our world-renowned experts

Our world-class faculty are leaders in the field of business practice. They combine theoretical knowledge from their cutting-edge research with the latest practical insights from their extensive work with industry and government. Their experience of advising companies and tackling business challenges brings theory to life.

"The Business School faculty are extremely diverse. It’s great to have renowned professors in entrepreneurship, finance, economics and marketing that teach the lectures. It makes the classroom experience much more relevant and contextualises theory into real world experiences."

Daniel Rose
Full-Time MBA 2016–17

Faculty belong to three research departments:

- Department of Finance
- Department of Management
- Department of Innovation and Entrepreneurship

Imperial College Business School has the highest proportion (92%) of ‘world leading’ and ‘internationally excellent’ research of any institution in the business and management category (REF 2014).

Professor Jonathan Haskel
Chair in Economics and non-Executive Director of the UK Statistics Authority

Professor Haskel’s main research interests are productivity, innovation, intangible investment and growth. His current research includes study of how much firms invest in “intangible” or “knowledge” assets – such as software, R&D and new business processes, how much such investment contributes to economic growth as a whole, and what public policy implications there might be, especially for science policy. Professor Haskel has just finished eight years as a Member of the UK Competition Commission, including serving on the panel investigation into The British Airports Authority.

Dr Ileana Stigliani
Assistant Professor of Design and Innovation

Dr Stigliani’s research focuses on how material artifacts and practices influence cognitive processes – including sensemaking and sensegiving, categorisation, and perceptions of organisational and professional identities – within organisations. She received her PhD in Management from Bocconi University, Milan. Dr Stigliani is also a member of the Editorial Board of the European Management Journal.

Professor Franklin Allen
Executive Director of the Brevan Howard Centre and Professor of Finance

Professor Allen’s main areas of interest are corporate finance, asset pricing, financial innovation, comparative financial systems and financial crises. He received his doctorate from the University of Oxford and spent over 30 years at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, where he was the Nippon Life Professor of Finance and Co-Director of the Wharton Financial Institutions Center.

Dr Namrata Malhotra
Associate Professor of Strategy

Dr Malhotra’s research interests lie in the areas of organisational change and institutional change drawing on both organisational theory and strategy. She has an MPhil in Commerce from the Delhi School of Economics, India and a PhD in Organisational Analysis from the University of Alberta, Canada. Dr Malhotra also teaches on Executive Education programs at Imperial and other institutions. Currently, she is an International Research Fellow in the Novak Druce Centre for Professional Service Firms, Said Business School, University of Oxford.

Dr Andreas Eisingerich
Programme Director and Professor of Marketing

Professor Eisingerich focuses a large proportion of his studies and teaching on the concept of innovation. He earned his master’s and doctorate from the University of Cambridge, Judge Business School. Much of Professor Eisingerich’s research on innovation has been widely published and translated into several languages. He also acts as a reviewer for a number of marketing journals and is best known for his work on consumer engagement and communication strategies, brand management and service innovation.
Building your career

“My career coach has given me invaluable support and guidance throughout my career search. She has helped me to structure my job search and networking activities, and connected me with people who work in my field of interest.”

Alison Lane

Careers & Professional Development Service
An MBA is about advancing your career and we’re here to help you achieve your goals from day one. The career and professional development element is a central benefit of undertaking an MBA, and as such, forms a significant part of your journey to become a future leader.

One of the many benefits of a small MBA cohort is having access to a highly personalised career service throughout your year at the Business School. Your own dedicated career coach will work closely with you in formulating your post-MBA career strategy, guiding you through the career management process we have developed specifically for MBA students.

Personal Leadership Journey
The Personal Leadership Journey will help you identify your strengths and weaknesses and take charge of your development path. You will address your professional development areas through a range of activities including workshops, reflective exercises and one-to-one meetings. Through these activities you will be taught vital skills to help prepare you for your post-MBA career.

The Personal Leadership Journey emphasises three main and interconnected elements:

Career strategy – develops a clear foundation for your individual career strategy by mapping out your career, personal and leadership objectives.

Self-awareness – identifies your strengths, and your professional and leadership development areas. This feedback will perform the basis of your bespoke Personal Development Plan.

Professional development – a range of workshops on offer will address the identified development needs from within your Personal Development Plan.

The Personal Leadership Journey also prepares you to put your best foot forward when interviewing with prospective employers, networking with senior alumni who influence hiring decisions, and building your own networks through the Imperial MBA projects and internships. More tailored and specialist support is provided through online subscription courses, such as Wall Street Prep and Case Questions Interactive, to help you prepare for technical finance or case interviews.

Employer relations
The Employer Relations Team works with current employers, both in the UK and internationally, with an overall objective of helping them to hire our students. The team also proactively targets potential employers to educate them about the strengths and career aspirations of our students, with the aim of increasing the number of advertised job vacancies and maximising the opportunities for students to meet companies on campus.

Careers Week
A week which enables you to focus on your career after a busy first core on the programme. It will involve a series of workshops and activities to enable you to crystallise your career strategy, sharpen your applications and interview technique and develop your professional skills; allowing you to accelerate progress towards your career aims.

You will also have access to:
- Personalised one-to-one coaching
- Psychometric tests
- E-resources
- Online job board
- Skills workshops

Claire Cockerton
Full-Time MBA 2009–10
Nationality: Canadian
Pre-MBA employment: Founder and Director, Aesthetic Earthworks Inc.
Post-MBA: CEO and Chairwoman of Entiq, and Founding CEO of Innovate Finance

“The MBA was a fantastic transition into industry. As part of my final project, I wrote my thesis on business incubators and set one up for Richard Branson called the Branson Centre for Entrepreneurship in Johannesburg. My company, Entiq was founded three years ago. We work with young technology firms to help them grow their companies.

Imperial College doesn’t produce the traditional business person. Imperial College seeks to recruit the extraordinary and create the extraordinary.”

Carlos Vitoria
Full-Time MBA 2012–13
Nationality: Spanish
Pre-MBA employment:
Project and Programme Manager, IRIDIUM Infrastructure Concessions (ACS Group)
Post-MBA: Consulting Manager, Deloitte UK

“My time at Imperial allowed me to explore some areas I wasn’t familiar with. Through the wide choices of electives, events and the opportunity to independently shape your final project, I increased my exposure to the renewable energy industry. That helped me to secure my first job after the MBA for a solar PV company.

I later decided to make the move into consulting and Imperial was very helpful. By tapping into the powerful alumni network, I met my manager at Deloitte.”

Andrea Solana
Full-Time MBA 2013–14
Nationality: American
Pre-MBA employment:
Manager, Financial Advisory and Chief Compliance Officer, Wolf Group

“During the MBA I knew that I wanted to make a function and location change so I went out and sourced my consulting project with MASECO. Off the back of my project they offered me a full-time position. In my current role a lot of what I’m doing involves wealth planning. It was never a separate and distinct service offering within the company before I started here but after learning more about the entrepreneurship and strategic thinking aspects on the MBA programme, I was able to start a new segment of the business.”

Imperial entrepreneurs:
Founders of Think. Plan. Thrive.

Jared Ruddy
Full-Time MBA 2015–16
Nationality: British
Pre-MBA employment: Senior Strategist, News UK
Post-MBA: Co-Founder, Think. Plan. Thrive

“Imperial’s MBA is much more entrepreneurial in its focus than other MBAs. The unique combination of design thinking, with entrepreneurialism meant we were able to build the foundations of our business and develop our business model.”

Imogen Berman
Full-Time MBA 2015–16
Nationality: British
Pre-MBA employment: Founder, ByImogen, London
Post-MBA: Co-Founder, Think. Plan. Thrive

“We met on the Full-Time MBA, and following the programme, joined forces to co-found Think. Plan. Thrive. We were frustrated that innovation strategies weren’t getting done quickly enough within organisations, so we wanted to build a start-up to help people like us do entrepreneurial projects.”

Your international network
Graduation is not the end of your relationship with Imperial. As an alumnus of the Business School and Imperial College London, you’ll be part of a vibrant alumni network with over 190,000 members worldwide in more than 190 countries, and with links into virtually every business sector. As a student and alumnus of the Business School, you will have lifelong access to leading business professionals, thinkers and decision makers across all industry sectors.

Continuing professional development and networking
You’ll have access to a wealth of opportunities to develop your professional and business networks after you graduate. These include inspiring professional development events, as well as professional interest networks, guest lectures and presentations, webinars and the opportunity to participate in electives alongside current Business School students.

Benefits on offer to our prestigious alumni network include:

- Invitations to events around the world
- Exclusive access to an alumni lounge and meeting space
- Discounts on evening classes, gym membership and more

Stay involved
There are many ways you can continue to play an active role with the Business School and ensure we remain a world-class teaching institute with a strong global community. No matter where you are based or how much time you have available, you can contribute to the School, the student experience and the continuing growth of an engaged alumni network.

The Imperial alumni community includes prestigious prize winners, inventors, business leaders, scientists, engineers, doctors, journalists, researchers and entrepreneurs. 14 Nobel laureates are associated with the College including Sir Alexander Fleming who discovered penicillin, the first antibiotic, in 1928.

Alumni from the Business School include Karl Harder, Co-founder and Director of Abundance Generation – a revolutionary crowd-funding organisation which advocates ethical investing, and Rajen Ruparell who sold a daily deals website he co-founded to Groupon just five months after launch.

“Imperial’s alumni network is massive and everyone is very friendly and helpful. I’ve also leveraged the Imperial networks and proactively met people within the MBA. Speaking to people within the community has helped me to clear my thoughts and focus on what I want to achieve.”

Meet us

We understand that applying for an MBA is a big decision. There are many ways that you can find out more about the programme before submitting your application.

Attend an information session
A great way to find out more about the Imperial MBA is to attend one of our information sessions, either on campus or online. These are held throughout the year and give you an opportunity to meet staff, current students and alumni.

International fairs
We also attend a number of international fairs each year, where you can meet our Recruitment team.
Please visit: imperial.ac.uk/business-school/programmes/meet-us for a full list of upcoming events.

Request a profile review
If you would like a personal meeting, we are happy to arrange individual consultations to discuss our MBA programme in detail, assess your suitability and answer any questions you may have. Simply fill out the short online form at: imperial.ac.uk/business-school/full-time-mba/profile-review/

Speak with a current student or alumnus
You may find it helpful to get in touch with a current student or alumnus to hear about their experience on our Imperial MBA. To be connected with a student or alumni please contact our Recruitment team on: mba@imperial.ac.uk

“The Recruitment team have a very personal approach that assisted me in making my decision to study at Imperial. I even had the opportunity to visit the Business School to participate in a student-led conference prior to the beginning of the year.”
